Sample Question/Answer Page

Award: Leader of the Year

Please note: This is just an example of how the questions can be answered and the type of answers the Awards Committee is looking for.

Question #1: Provides an environment that supports all children and families in developing to their fullest potential.

Example answer:

- Julia works hard to provide an environment that supports children and families in developing to their fullest potential. An example of this is that Julia surveyed parents twice this year about their ideas and opinions regarding the centre and the care that they receive. These survey results were discussed at the AGM and the suggestions were carefully analyzed and a plan was made to implement some of the suggestions. The parents were then notified of the changes through conversations and through parent newsletters. Parents were encouraged to help with some of the changes. For example one of the parents helped organized a painting party to paint the centre.

Question #2: Works to promote and position child care as a key community service and as a profession.

Example answer:

- Julia is an active community member who promotes not only our centre but child care as a profession. Each year, Julia, attends two of the local high school career fairs and always brings an ECE along as well. The ECE gives information and testimony from a front line ECE perspective and Julia assists by providing information about our particular centre and the child care profession. She displays pictures, newsletters, articles from the centre and posters, pamphlets from the Early Learning and Child Care program and the Manitoba Child Care Association.

Question #3: Develops/promotes child and family related activities and programs for the child care community.

Example answer:

- Julia plans a number of activities throughout the year, which promotes child and family related activities and programs. An example of an activity was the Rock and Read Program that she organized for not only our centre but for two neighbourhood child care programs. Julia set a meeting with the two centres directors to gather ideas and information and then wrote a grant proposal to our Parent and Child Coalition to request funding for this program. Once funding was in place, she created pamphlets and posters, advertising the Rock and Read Program for all three of the centres, to parents of the program. She also organized space in our centre and child care for the program. She then personally approached parents to give information and encouraged them to attend. Julia also attended the program and encouraged the other directors to attend along with the parents so that they would feel comfortable.

Question #4: Fosters the development of the Board of Directors/Parent Advisory Committee to actualize the mission and the goals of the organization.

Example answer:

- Julia recognizes the importance of working with our board of directors to ensure that they understand information that is being provided to them as well as feel comfortable attending and contributing at meetings. Board orientation sessions are held and she personally goes through the board binder and information with them. Name cards are placed at each meeting with “cheat notes” on the back facing them with acronyms, etc. that they may not be familiar with ie, ELCC, MCCA, ECERS etc. for easy reference. New board members are partnered with experienced board members for seating arrangements, so that they can answer questions, etc. if needed. Robert’s Rules of Order are always reviewed at the beginning of the fall board meetings and evaluations of meetings are also completed twice a year.

Question #5: Provides support to centre staff through initiatives, which fosters a positive work environment and ongoing professional development.

Example answer:

- Julia believes that it is very important to foster a positive work environment and ongoing professional development. Staff meetings are held every second Tuesday to ensure that our staff are able to talk about families, concerns and upcoming plans. Staff take turns leading the meetings and agenda items are brought to those staff persons prior to the meeting. Meetings begin with “What happened this week which you are most proud of?” The stories, no matter how large or small are always inspiring and uplifting and everyone starts the meeting on a positive note.
- Continual learning is highly valued at our centre and professional development opportunities are clearly posted for everyone. Julia has strongly advocated to the board about the importance of ongoing professional development and because of that our centre has a large budget for our staff to participate in these opportunities. Staff then have an opportunity at staff meetings to discuss and inform staff of new information that they have learned. Julia and two staff at our centre has also facilitated a workshop at MCCA called “XXXXX”.

Question #6: Program management.

Example answer:

- Julia is a competent manager who uses General Accepted Accounting principles, and has a strong understanding of employment standards and workplace health and safety. Julia has been approached by MCCA to mentor new Directors in our community, because of the experience and expertise she has in this area. Employee Health, Safety and Wellness is important to Julia and often posts reminders of this topic in our staff room and discusses it at our staff meeting. When a staff recently was injured on the playground. Julia ensured that she followed proper protocol in regards to Manitoba Workers Compensation and also held an in-house investigation, and made plans to try to avoid this type of injury again.
- Even though Julia is an ECE III, and has her diploma in Early Childhood Program Management she seeks and takes courses relevant to the administration and programming. They include.....
