10:00 am - 12:00 noon No one owes you a living - Professionalism – Do you understand your workplace expectations? Do your coworkers expect you to do things that you didn't even know were your responsibility? Based on the book "You Want Me To Do What! we'll explore the common and not-so-common areas of performance and teamwork and have a look at some of the non-negotiables of the workplace. "No one owes you a living. It is up to you to adapt, evolve, and thrive!"

1:00 pm – 3:30 pm Handle With Care Building Block 9– Environment - We will explore how the centre setting is an important factor in promoting children's mental health. Typically, emphasis is on the basic physical condition of centres with regard to safety. While this is critical, many other aspects of the physical environment also contribute to children's social and emotional development. During the workshop we will explore what events and experiences children have at the centre and what aspects of a centre's space affect children in their daily life at the centre. A HWC Participant Training Manual will be provided to all registered participants.
